Luis Gonzalez's ASUlsTalking Scores One for Students, Wins Exclusive Partnership with Jobing.com

PHOENIX. – ASUlsTalking.com, a social networking site for [Arizona State University](http://Arizona State University) students and alumni that was founded by MLB All-Star Luis Gonzalez and business partner, Anthony Conti, has signed an exclusive agreement with Jobing.com, the nation's largest locally-focused provider of employment media.

The partnership between the two sites will enable current ASU students, as well as alumni, to search for jobs directly from their ASUlsTalking accounts. Together, ASUlsTalking and Jobing.com hope to connect students with companies seeking to recruit the brightest, young professionals. Phoenix-based Jobing.com's mission is to connect local companies with great local people, making it a natural partner for ASUlsTalking, which is dedicated to localizing and simplifying social networking for ASU students and alumni.

"Our hope in partnering with Jobing.com is to give students and alumni one more tool to improve their lives," said Gonzalez, co-founder of [IsTalking LLC](http://IsTalking LLC), parent company of ASUlsTalking. "It's important that we bring them job opportunities that are relevant and that match up with their interests. This exclusive partnership will allow them to do just that."

Jobing.com is no stranger to ASU; CEO and Founder Aaron Matos is an ASU alumnus and the company has long-partnered with the ASU Alumni Association to provide an online job board and networking resources for Sun Devil grads.

"Jobing.com has enjoyed a strong relationship with ASU, working closely with leaders to provide valuable resources to students and alumni," Matos said. "This agreement allows us to serve ASU in a truly unique new way and we are thrilled to be involved with such an innovative project."
